Gentle green-yellow colour. Soft taste, while on the nose it's filled with scents of Dalmatian herbs.

History:

The sparse land and the difficult rocky landscape forced the farmers to engage in the production of grapes and wine, and they proved to be excellent winegrowers and winemakers. The first mention of viticulture in the Šibenik area comes from the XIc.

Vinoplod winery and distillery started form 1959.

Today, in the area of Šibenik-Knin County, domestic black varieties predominate (Plavina 60%, Babić 40%), and of the white varieties, Debit 80% and Maraština 20% are the most widespread.

Distillation:

20 Dalmatian herbs carefully picked in the fields of the Šibenik hinterland. The harvest is followed by a long maceration to get the highest quality macerates that will become part of Travarica, with the addition of the finest wine distillate.

Serving suggestion and food pairing: Serve at ~8°C. Travarica is famous Croatian aperitif and is recommended before any meal especially before any Mediterranean dish.
