This charismatic Athiri is one of the most ancient of Greek grape varieties. It offers to us a particular wine with bright colour, perfumes of peach and wild flowers with a balanced and refreshing finish.

History & Terroir:

Phaedon, father of George Tzivani started to craft family's first biologically produced wines in 1960.

George, with the encouragement of his wife, Chrissie, in 1982, started cultivating Greek and European varieties on 110HA area, in Ristona Evoia, Arma Voiotia and other key regions in Greece. Tzivani Estate organic wines are produced only on family's low yield vineyards (every vine produces one bottle of wine) that gently slope from the winery building located on a 400-450 m elevation hill.
